Flashing headlights/ hood lights

Products Affected: 2008 and newer Vision (BBCV)

Complaint –

The headlights/hood turn/marker lights flash or don't work at all.

Cause –

There are 2 connectors which feed the electrical to the lights on the hood and road debris/salt is getting into the plugs causing corrosion (Figures #1 & #2).

Correction –

Unplug the 2 – 6 pin flat plugs and look to see if there is evidence of corrosion. If so you can clean with a small wire brush and solvent to remove the corrosion. Once that has been done we recommend using a small amount of Die-electric grease. If necessary you may need to replace the weather Pac connectors. We recommend using heat shrink covered connectors if you are splicing into the harness. Make sure that you then wrap the connector and any splices in electrical tape to add extra seal protection. Tie strap the harness coming from the hood to each hood hinge and then tuck the plug up in behind the front cross member. Tie strap that up to help in keeping it from dangling in road debris.
